G'Odd is a rapper, producer, performer and multi-media artist who creates expansive projects with a myriad of interwoven components. Almost every aspect of these creations are completed by him alone, though he also has numerous collaborative projects.

For his primary works of the past years, he makes beats, writes lyrics, records mixes and masters and album, films and edits music video and movies, writes accompanying essays, stories, and spoken word pieces, creates set pieces and visual arts, designs the clothing he wears, designs all artwork and promotional materials, assembles unique art objects to package his digital releases, conducts street interviews, films guerilla street performances and sometimes communicates in bizarre video messages or cryptic postal mailings.
